Sometimes, the paintings that bring the greatest joy are not those by the most famous artists.

I have asked each member of my staff to select the paintings that they would most want to hang in their homes. Here are their selections from an inventory of over 400 works. The artists' names have intentionally been withheld; you can find out who they are by visiting our website or calling us.

This may prove to be an interesting experiment. Perhaps we are all overly influenced by fame and popularity—the art we love may not be the most expensive.

Let your heart decide!
